MILLIONAIRE TRAVELLER MURDERED

Found Dead Aboard Deep Sea Yacht.

SAILOR UNDER SUSPICION.

(Reuter's Special Service)

San Francisco, Yesterday. Police are seeking clues in connection with the recent murder of the globe-trotter, Captain Walter Wanderwell, who was found dead, aboard his deep-sea yacht, the "Carma," off Long Beach, California.

Fifteen members of the crew have been requested to attend the inquest.

W. J. Guv, described as a seaman, is being held as a suspect following allegations that he quarrelled with Mr. Wanderwell shortly before the latter was found apparently murdered.

Mr. Wanderwell had recently completed a cruise around the world in his yacht. He was well-known in many parts of the Orient and his trim little craft was familiar with the blue waters of the South Seas.

DISRUPTION OF CONTROL IN FUKIEN

General Tsai Declines To Take Post.

SHANGHAI RUMOURS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Fukien, Yesterday. General Tsai Ting-kai hesitates to accept the appointment of Pacification Commissioner in the Province of Fukien. This announcement was made by the noted 19th Route Army leader when he was interviewed by members of the press to-day.

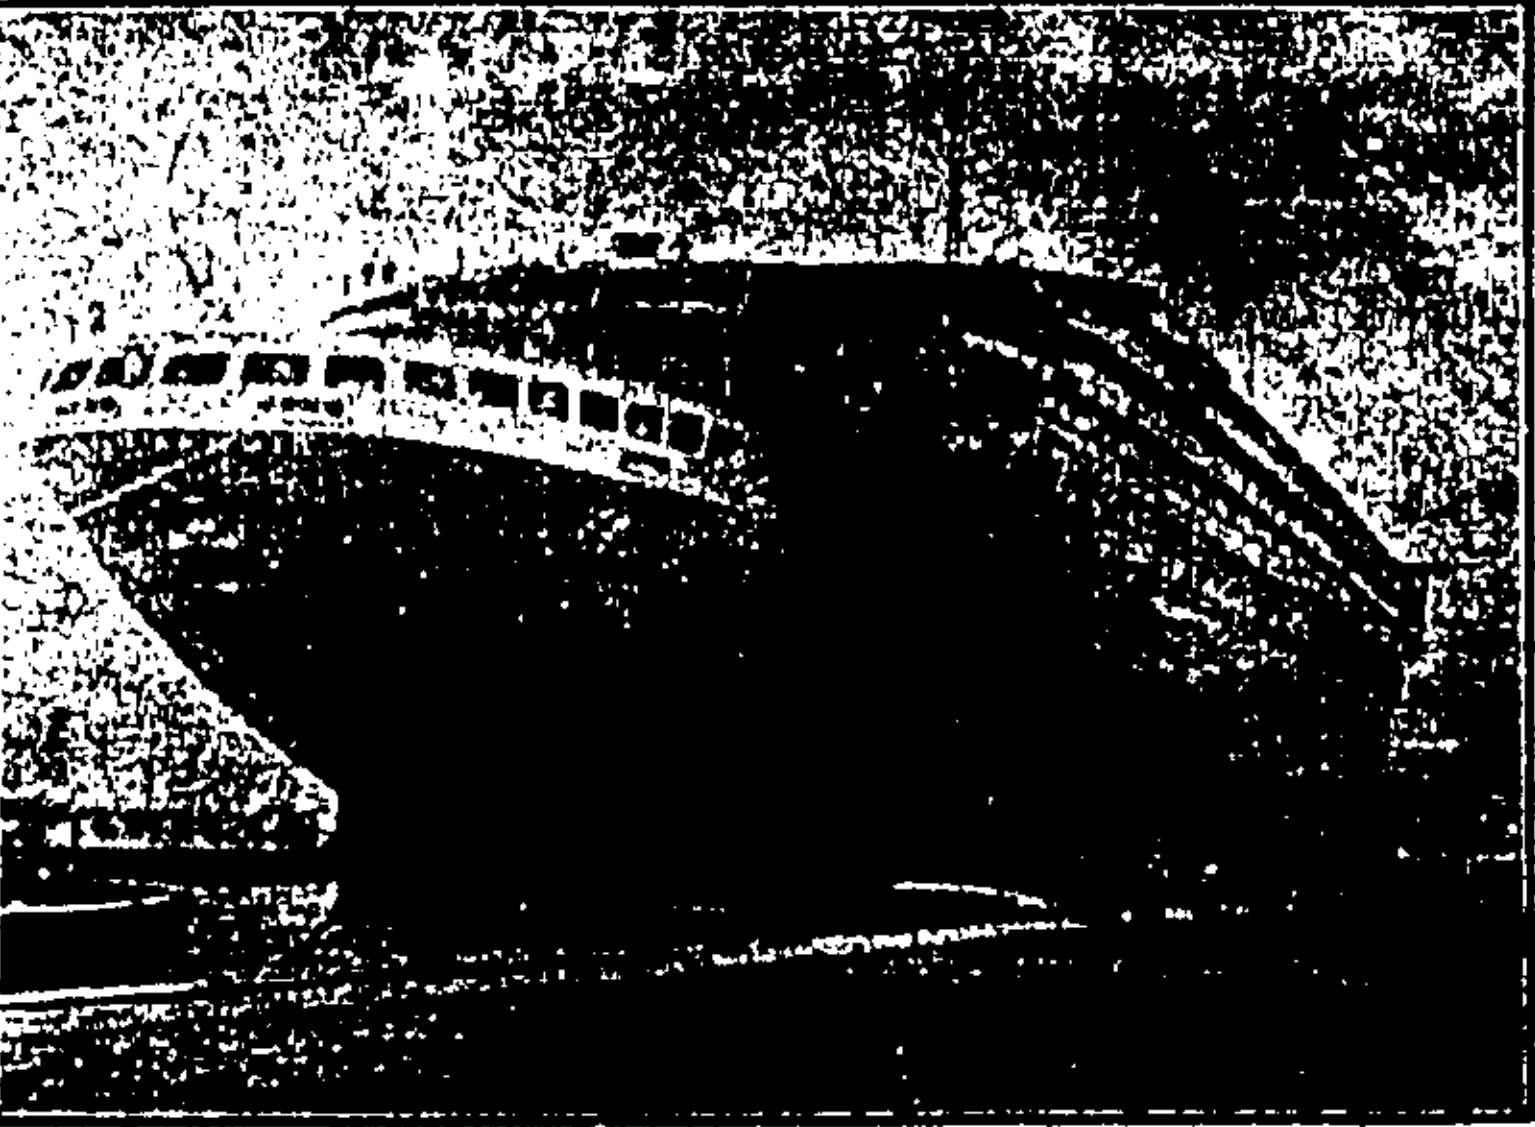

His reasons are two-fold. Firstly, the troops under General Liu Chau-nien now stationed in Northern Fukien do not come under the control of the Pacification Commissioner, and for this reason co-ordination of military effort and command is utterly impossible. Secondly, in view of the financial difficulty in Fukien, the 19th Route Army cannot be without the support of the Canton Government's grant of $300,000 a month, and until this is promised he cannot accept the post.

"The Murder of Montague Harris" a great short story by the popular novelist C. G. Leary will appear in tomorrow's China Mail, continuing the series of short stories which are published daily in Hong Kong's oldest and brightest newspaper.

Other features in the China Mail, the oldest-established newspaper in the Far East, include the Colony's best sports pages, a Women's page, a cross-word puzzle and a daily cartoon. Columns on Literature, Art and Drama, Building, Engineering and Aviation, Motoring, Cinemas and Children's Topics also appear during each week.

When the "Supers Floating Cathedral" the "Normandie," was launched at St. Nazaire, by Mme. Lebrun, wife of the French President, the entry into the water caused an enormous backwash. Many spectators were in danger of being swept away and clung for dear life on to whatever they could lay hands. One man died from heart failure caused by shock. (S. & G.)

Railway Connection With Manchuli Resumed.

Harbin, Yesterday. Railway traffic with Manchuli was resumed to-day, thus enabling the restoration of the mail service via Siberia. The connection was made possible, it is understood, by the disruption of bandit bands in the railway zone.—Reuter.

POLITICAL VETERAN'S PASSING

Sir Elliot Johnson Dies In Sydney.

LONG, LOYAL SERVICE.

(Reuter's Special Service)

Sydney, Yesterday. Hon. Sir William Elliot Johnson, K.C.M.G., Nationalist member of the Commonwealth Parliament from 1903 to 1928, died here to-day.

Sir Elliot Johnson, who was in his 70th year, was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne. He married, and has a daughter.

Sir Elliot was Speaker of the House of Representatives, 1913-14, and from 1917 to 1928.

(Reuter's Special Service)

CRAWFORD BEATS VINES IN 5 SETS

Wimbledon Champion Makes Many Blunders.

THEIR THIRD MEETING.

Melbourne, Yesterday.

Jack Crawford, Australia's No. 1 ranking tennis player, caused a first-class tennis sensation here to-day when he defeated Ellsworth Vines, the American ace, by scores of 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 to win the Victorian Championship.

The American returned many easy shots into the net, but Crawford excelled in the way he drew Vines to the net to pass him time and again with dazzling strokes.

This is Crawford's first win over Vines, the latter having a straight sets victory at Wimbledon to his credit and a four sets win in the first "Test" between America and Australia. Crawford reached today's final by defeating Harry Hopman while Vines eliminated C. Sproule.

GENERAL SU KNOWN TO BE SAFE IN CHINA

Soviet Refuses Tokyo Request.

MOSCOW IS UNMOVED.

Peking, Yesterday.

Chinese reports received here to-day state that General Su Ping-wen is now at Chita and intends to proceed shortly to Moscow.

It is very probable, the reports state, that he will go on to Geneva before returning to China.—Reuter.

Tokyo, Yesterday. All attempts of the Japanese Government to get the Soviet authorities to hand over General Su Ping-wen to the Japanese military authorities have thus far met with complete failure, it was revealed to-day.

The revelation was made here that M. Karahan has flatly refused the Japanese request for the extradition of General Su and the members of his staff, who entered Soviet territory following their defeat at the hands of the Japanese forces.

It is learned that the Japanese Government has now requested the Soviet Government not to permit General Su to leave Soviet Russia. No reply has as yet been received, but another refusal from Moscow is anticipated.—Reuter.

GERMANY GRANTS AMNESTY.

Lenience Shown All But Murderers.

(Reuter's Special Service)

Berlin, Yesterday. The Reichstag by 895 to 144, passed, with slight amendments, the government's Amnesty Bill, which remits all sentences up to five years and considerably reduces heavier sentences, except those for murder.

The Japanese believe a majority of the American people never were actively in favour of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's policy with regard to Manchuria—at least.

MITCHELL TAKES 7 FOR 77 AT WAGGA

Holiday Trip Enjoyed By M.C.C.

WYATT SENDS OPPONENTS IN.

Wagga, Yesterday.

The local side scored 225, Sly contributing 67 not out and Bennett 53. Mitchell, the Derbyshire slow bowler, claimed 7 for 77. Before the close of play, the M.C.C. had scored 44 for the loss of one wicket.—Reuter.

JAPAN ALERT FOR CHANGES IN U.S. POLICY

Tokyo Keeps Her Eye On P.I.

EXPECT NO CHANGE.

Tokyo, To-day.

What attitude the administration of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States will take toward the Far East in general and the Philippines in particular was being awaited today in Japan with the keenest interest.

Japan sees a possibility of modification of American policy in a number of respects that will affect the Orient.

The Japanese believe a majority of the American people never were actively in favour of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's policy with regard to Manchuria—at least.

CHINA MUST SUBDUE HER INNER ENEMY

Before She Can Meet Invasions.

WAR COSTS $1,300,000 MONTHLY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Canton, Yesterday. China must subdue her internal enemies, declared Mr. Yang Tachai representative of Gen. Chan Chai-long, who is on his way to Nanking to take part in the Third Plenary Sessions of the Kuomintang on December 15.

Before sailing on the President Taft yesterday for Shanghai, Mr. Yang told "The Sunday Herald" that he had brought with him two suggestions for the suppression of Communism from Gen. Chan Chai-long, and which were to be submitted to the Sessions for discussion.

Mr. Yang said the General's suggestions were to use military and political power to suppress the Communists, and further stated that unless the Communists in China were completely dispersed the country could not cope with foreign aggression.

ASSEMBLY ADJOURNS SESSION

LONDON YESTERDAY.

SIR JOHN SIMON'S WISE AND MODERATE COUNSEL HAS PREVAILED BEFORE THE DELEGATES AT THE SESSIONS OF THE ASSEMBLY OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS. DECLARES "THE DAILY MAIL" TO-DAY IN A LEADER ARTICLE, AND THROUGH HIS EFFORTS A MOST DELICATE SITUATION HAS BEEN LIFTED FROM CRISIS TO CRISIS WITHOUT INJURY.

While the Committee of Nineteen is preparing a report, the paper goes on to say, there is ample time for tempers to cool and the whole difficult question may solve itself.

Lord Cecil, however, is still anxious. The situation, he declares is still menacing.

Lord Cecil demanded a clearer leadership from Great Britain in the Manchuria issue when he spoke before the National Peace Council Conference assembled to-day. He said he would like to hear that the Assembly of the League of Nations had entirely and without reserve adopted the Lytton Report.

"We should not allow ourselves to be moved by unmanly language or threats of either of the two parties most vitally concerned," he said.

HITLER'S LEGIONS REVOLT

Serious Breach In Party Threatens.

LEADERS CANNOT AGREE.

(Reuter's Special Service)

Berlin, Yesterday.

What amounts to a revolt against Herr Adolf Hitler's leadership of the Nazis is seen in the seething ranks of the party, many members of which are dissatisfied with his policy of "all or nothing."

The leader in the rebellion is Herr Gregor Strasser, National Organising Director of the party, who, however, has yet to come out into the open, as he has done privately, against Hitler's "dominating dictatorship."

Strasser had counselled toleration of the General von Schliecher regime, chosen by the President, so as to avoid the possibility of a fresh election. But Hitler was unresponsive of any such plan.

Following the announcement that Strasser had been granted "three weeks' leave of absence" came the revelation that his close friend, Herr Gottfried Feder, Chief of the Nazi Economic Council, had also asked for a holiday. In a letter to Hitler he declared that the "striking power" of the party was endangered by the policy pursued at present.

Feder warned Hitler to abandon his intention of dissolving the Economic Department on the ground that this would lead to an enormous loss of votes because, he argued, it would be interpreted as a sacrifice of the party's chief aim, namely, to provide bread and work.

It is not confirmably reported, but generally known, that the rebels include Wilhelm Frick, leader of the Nazis in the Reichstag, and Alfred Rosenberg, influential newspaper owner, and also that the insurgents have the sympathy of at least fifty out of 195 Nazi members of the Reichstag.

COTTON MILLS SEEK TO SHUT DOOR ON JAPAN

Lancashire Roused To Urgent Protest.

ASK ACTION IN INDIA.

London, Yesterday.

Plans to hold mass meetings throughout all Lancashire in protest against foreign competition in cotton piece goods, particularly against the dumping of Japanese textiles in India, colonies and dependencies, were made at a meeting in Manchester, largely attended by leading spinners, manufacturers, merchants and shippers yesterday.

A resolution calling on the Government to prevent such competition by securing, firstly, assurance that no import duties would be placed in India, the colonies or dependencies on British goods, other than those necessary for revenue purposes; secondly, that duties imposed in the said countries should be such as to enable British producers to compete on a fair basis.

The resolution also called for measures to be taken to secure the employment of British labour in the said countries, and for the Government to take steps to secure the employment of British labour in the said countries.

The meeting was held at the Manchester Central Hall, and was addressed by Mr. J. H. Fawcett, President of the Lancashire Cotton Spinners' and Manufacturers' Association, who said that the meeting was held to discuss the question of the dumping of Japanese textiles in India, colonies and dependencies, and to call on the Government to take steps to prevent such competition.

TOPICSFrom Our Own Correspondent

November 20.

Sir Victor Warrender.

Reference has been made recently to one or other of the younger men who are making names for themselves in the political world. Sir Victor Warrender has just been promoted to the office of Vice-Chamberlain in the Royal Household.

One of Sir Victor's duties in that capacity is the nightly preparation for the King of a summarised report of the day's proceedings in the House of Commons. That function demands of the Vice-Chamberlain many of the qualities which go towards the making of a successful political journalist.

His Majesty requires no bald summary of speeches delivered, but rather a colourful picture of all that has taken place both in the Chamber and behind the scenes.

The Pulse of Parliament.

It is rather for the impression created by an important speech, or an indication of the whisperings behind closed doors—straws that may indicate the direction of a brewing storm—that the King looks to his "political correspondent."

Sir Victor, though now only 33, has sat in Parliament for nearly ten years and has had quite a long experience as a Whip, which should stand him in good stead so far as taking the pulse of back bench opinion is concerned.

The Disappearing Attache Case.

One of Lord Lytton's neighbours at the luncheon given him recently by the Association of American Correspondents in London told an amusing story of an attempt by one of the Governments most intimately concerned to obtain premature knowledge of the contents of the Lytton Commission's Report.

The courier who returned with the Report to Europe travelled by the Trans-Siberian express. With him went an unostentatious attache-case.

Three times during the journey the attache-case mysteriously disappeared from the courier's compartment. And three times it was as mysteriously returned. Unfortunately for the persistent intruder, the Report was not in the attache-case but sewn into the lining of the courier's jacket.

An Empire Heavyweight.

There is no Englishman who does not admire the pluck of Don McCorkindale, the sporting South African heavyweight.

He comes of a good stock. His grandfather Alexander, a Scot, took a number of Scottish clansmen to the Transvaal and obtained from President Pretorius a subsidy and a tract of land near Lake Chrissie. He called the high ground New Scotland and the low ground Roburnia—the land of Robert Burns. His pet project was to link the Transvaal to the sea by a trade route.

Owing to the climate many of the emigrants fell ill, but later, thrown on their own resources, some of them did remarkably well. In the end the old pioneer "took the count" from malaria, leaving behind him a tradition of pluck and stamina which his grandson has not forgotten.

London's Town Clerk.

For the second year running the Court of Common Council recently unanimously resolved to retain the services of Sir James Bell as Town Clerk of London. This is a great compliment to Sir James's ability, as he passed the age-limit of 65 at the end of 1930. But it is only a reflection of the general estimation in which he is held, whether by Ministers' departmental officials, or City men.

Sir James, who was appointed in 1905 at the early age of 36, was formerly Assistant Town Clerk of Birmingham and later Town Clerk of Leicester. As Town Clerk of London he is the chief executive officer in the City.

Following the tradition of his predecessors, he signs all notices with his surname alone—"Bell"—as if he were a peer. The origin of this custom is uncertain, but it has long been recognised as a prescriptive right.

Mr. Frederick Lonsdale.

Mr. Frederick Lonsdale, whose new comedy, "Never Come Back," is to be done soon in London, is a modern Bohemian. He used to be seen everywhere in fashionable London, but nowadays he only makes rare visits.

He could have made a large fortune in Hollywood, but threw away the chance for a reason which many may think quixotic. He once told me that he could never live in the film city because there was no conversation.

He wanted the companionship of good fellows, who could spin yarns and knew something of camaraderie.

When he got to Los Angeles he found the actors and the film colony generally either too tired or too dumb to talk. "I was the loneliest man in California, and so I came home," he said.

A Political Luncheon.

Lord Winterton made an admirable speech at the inaugural luncheon of the "English Review" Luncheon Club. Although at one point he became a little technical, the rousing plea for youthfulness in the Conservative party with which he concluded evoked enthusiastic applause.

It was a very representative gathering of younger Conservative literary and political figures. Sir Charles Petrie acted as chairman, and others at the high table included Lord Lloyd, the Maharaja of Burdwan, and Mr. Douglas Jerrold, the editor.

Lord Lyttington was also present, wearing his favourite carnation buttonhole, and so were Lord Idlesleigh and Mr. Arnold Lunn. Admiral Sir Sydney Fremantle was at another table, and seemed keenly interested in Earl Winterton's speech.

Sir H. Royce's First Engine.

Few professions have provided more of a "carriere ouverte aux talents" than the motoring industry.

Sir William Morris started a bicycle repair shop in Oxford at the age of 16 with hardly any capital; Mr. Napier first built his cars in a back street off Lambeth; and Daimler started his works in the ruins of a cotton mill in Coventry. Sir Henry Royce, who started work in a very small way at the age of 9, bought one of the earliest foreign cars imported into this country. He was so disgusted with its unreliable behaviour that he burst out, "I could make a better engine myself."

A Fortunate Escape.

The recent attack on the Zoo overseer Budd, of the Reptile House—who was bitten by the giant Komodo "dragon" while in the act of feeding the lizard with a pigeon—is by no means the most alarming experience which has come to him in the course of his duties.

Some years ago Mr. Budd was bitten on two fingers by one of the most deadly species of rattlesnake. Luckily the curator of reptiles was close at hand, and at once laid open the wound and applied a ligature. This happened before anti-serums were available, so that although the victim was down and out for a fortnight his survival at all is a matter for congratulation.

CONVICT CUT DOWN DURING GAOL FIGHTFellow Prisoner On Serious Charge.

AXE USED AS WEAPON.

A savage attack, with an axe, on a short term prisoner made by a convict in Victoria Gaol on Wednesday, was brought to light in the Central Police Court yesterday when, before Mr. Grantham, Tse Kau, prisoner No. 87, was formally charged with maliciously wounding Tam Tak, with intent to maim, disfigure or disable. The charge was explained to the prisoner who was not asked to plead.

Detective-Inspector J. Murphy, who was charge of the Police case, informed the Magistrate that Tam Tak is lying in the Government Civil Hospital in a serious condition. A doctor's certificate stated that the injured man may not be out of hospital for two months. He may have to have one or both arms amputated. The accused was serving a long term.

Mr. Grantham remarked the accused would have to be remanded from week to week until the injured man is able to attend Court for the hearing.

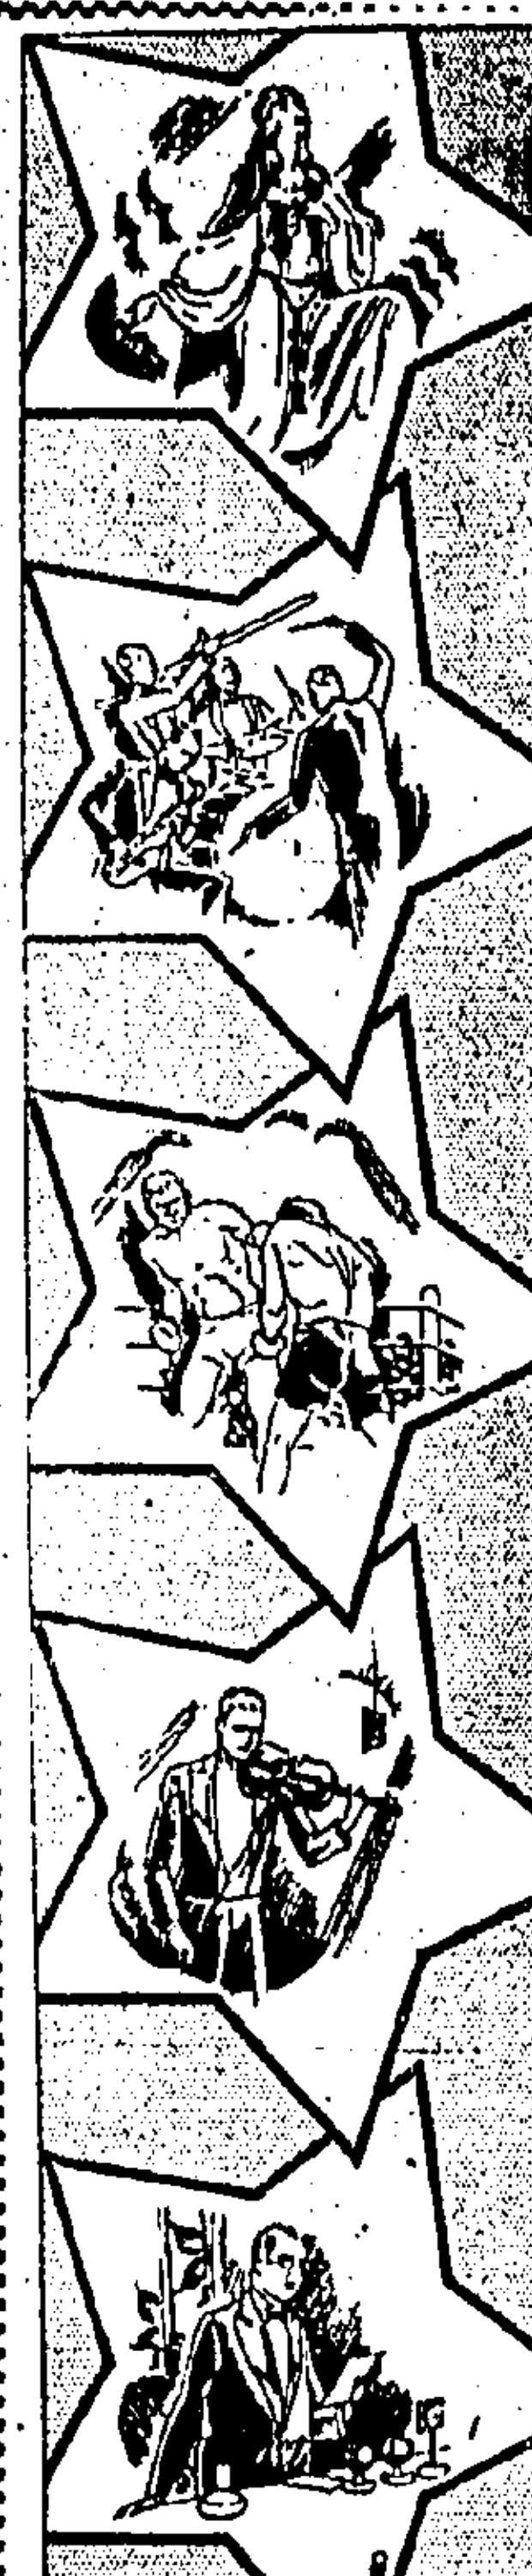

Accused was remanded for one week, formally.

Sudden Attack.

It is understood that the fight took place in the carpenter's shop, where Tse Kau is alleged to have taken hold of a carpenter's axe and slashed wildly at the other prisoner, a painter, across the table.

Tam Tak put both his arms up to defend his face, and in so doing was badly cut, one wound on the right wrist going to the bone. It is feared that this arm may have to be cut off. Everything happened so quickly that wardens on duty in the shop were unable to stop Tse Kau in time.

It is understood that the accused prisoner is serving five years for robbery, and has a little over half a year to complete his term.

MAJOR LOCHNER WINS IN AILSA

CAPT. C. T. INGLE
SAILS DAPHNE TO VICTORY

Keen Yachting Races
Yesterday.

ZEPHYR AGAIN WINS.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed yesterday afternoon, when the 5th Championship race for the "I," "Y," "G" and "H" classes of yachts of the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club were sailed. The 4th championship race for the now Anker boats was also decided, Jan being sailed to victory with Captain Krogh-Moe at the tiller.

Captain C. T. Ingle, of the Lincoln, sailed Daphne to first place in the race over the 8.7 miles course for the "I" and "Y" classes, with Ailsa (Major Lochner at the helm) second, and Speedwell, sailed by Major Stewart, occupying third place. There were seven starters and all finished the course. In the Gael class race, six started. Mr. F. E. Skinner sailing Zephyr to victory, thus compensating for his defeat by Joan in the Warren Memorial Cup last week end. Joan, sailed to victory by Mr. F. Cope last Saturday, most surprisingly occupied 5th place yesterday, with Sirius sailed by Mr. Sporleder, last. Toynette, owned by Miss Patchett, and sailed by Commander Stevenson, took second place.

Of five starters in the "H" class, started at 2.55 p.m. Argulla, with Mr. Pearce at the helm, was the only boat that failed to complete the course. Mr. Stock who won the Denison Cup last Saturday in Rella, sailed the same yacht to victory yesterday, with Diana second and Dorothea third.

In the race for Anker Class Yachts, Joan sailed by Mr. Stanton, did not finish the course, as she fouled the mark. Jan, her closest rival, was first, with Artemis second, and La Linda, sailed by the Commodore (Mr. A. L. Shields), third.

Course:—(1) Lyemun Beacon (P), (2) Runway Shoal (S), (3) Channel Rocks (S).
Distance:—8.7 miles.

The Lincoln forwards were well led by Higgins who was recently at centre in the senior eleven, while their two fast wingers, Clayton and Hocquard, gave the Eastern defenders an anxious time.

Worrall, the Lincoln pivot, was the outstanding player on the field and he kept the Eastern inside forwards well in check. Lal Ting-chol was the best forward for Eastern and put across some great centres which should have been turned to account.

The Lincoln scored through Barnes and Higgins (2) while Lal Ting-chol scored Eastern's point. There was no scoring in the second half.

Lincoln:—Deacon; Roden, Colclough, Bacon, Worrall, Robson; Clayton, Barnes, Higgins, McGuinness and Hocquard.

Eastern:—Chung, Fui-lo; Look Fuk-wan, Fung Yew-wai, Chung Yee-nam, Ng Yui-kai, Lee Yam; Lal Tong-chol, Lam Bing-long, So Fow-ai, Chen Wong and On Yui Hon.

ARTILLERY FORTUNATE TO HOLD TSUNG TSI

THE Artillery, who were expected to run out easy winners, were fortunate to hold the Taung Tsin forwards to a draw of two goals each at Caroline Hill.

Hardy led the Gunners attack, but their forwards were apt to dally about too much in front of goal and several good chances were lost when the Chinese backs stepped in and cleared.

The Chinese forwards were very speedy, but, with the exception of Li Shek-yau, at inside left, they lacked experience. Li set his men going several times after good work and passing, but many advantages were lost.

Greenshields and Tse Shu-yu scored before the interval and Snooks and Fung Ho-hing brought the scoring to four after the breather.

Tsung Tsin:—Li Tak-ching; Chan Ping-fung, Ip Wei-lam, Chau Koon-ping, Lam Tsang, Ma Pak-man, Tse Shu-yu, Fung Ho-hing, Mok Yiu-wang, Li Shek-yau and Choi Kwan-kwong.

Artillery:—Holmes; Leadbeater, Lowen; Ward, Greenshields, Harris; Snooks, Smith, Hardy, McDonald and Wood.

BORDERERS LOSE UNBEATEN RECORD.

IN a keenly fought contest at the alley, the Athletic, present leaders of the Second Division, robbed their most serious rivals, the Borderers, of their hundred per cent. record, when they deservedly won by 5 goals to 1.

The Borderers, who were without the services of Wallace and Lakeman, two stalwarts of their eleven who had been promoted to the first team, made the pace on the opening, but they were up against the finest defence of this division.

With keen tackling and carefully placed passes, the Chinese soon established a definite superiority. Sutor was to the fore with well timed clearances, but his forwards were decidedly inaccurate in their passing for the final kick towards goal, with the result that the Chinese were able to intercept many passes and with the Chinese halving opening up the game for their forwards, the Athletic always made the pass.

Shek Pui-tin and Young Kam-po scored for the Athletic in the first half while Hoo Chi-wing, Shek Pui-tin and Young Kam-po added goals after the interval. Mathias scored for the Borderers.

Athletic:—Liu Kam-ming; Wong Sik-bing, Tang Kwong-wing, Hoo Chi-wing, Wong Wing-jin, Leo Chi-yin, Sung King-yui, Lo Chat-wan, Shek Pui-tin, Young Kam-po and Ho Hung-chung.

Third Division.

RADIO'S FIFTH WIN.

The Radio registered their fifth win of the season in an easy manner when they defeated the Athletic by four clear goals at the Valley.

LINCOLN'S DANCE BAND
IN ATTENDANCE.

Favoured by brilliant weather, the second annual children's sports and Christmas Party, organised by the Kowloon Bowling Green Club was held with great success on the Club's tennis lawns yesterday afternoon. The grounds were gaily bedecked with coloured bunting, and, together with the merry laughter of the kiddies, lent much gaiety to the function.

A large crowd of members and their wives and friends were present, including Mrs. W. T. Southern, who later distribute the prizes to the winners of events and a Christmas present to each child. The Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, c.m.g. (Colonial Secretary), Mr. E. W. L. Hogbin, President of the K.B.G.C., Mr. F. L. Rapley, Vice-President and Members of the General Committee.

During the afternoon, the Dance Band of the 1st Battalion The Lincolnshire Regiment, by kind permission of Lieut.-Col. E. J. de C. Boys and Officers, played pleasing selections.

At the conclusion of the sports, the gathering adjourned to the Clubhouse, where the President, Mr. E. W. L. Hogbin, in a short speech, thanked members for their liberal donations and all who had helped to give the children such an excellent time that afternoon.

He thanked Mrs. Southern for her kind presence, and Mrs. Rapley and Mrs. Terry for purchasing the presents, and endeavouring to live up to their slogan "Buy British."

PLANS TO GIRDLE THE GLOBE

British Radio To Link All Lands

America Sets High Broadcast Standard

(By L. M. GANDER).

London.—While the British Empire is turning "a new page of history" in trade relations among the dominions, plans are also afoot to link the far-flung empire by radio. England has completed plans to build a forest of masts to hold aloft a monstrous cobweb of wires at Daventry so that wave lengths can be quickly juggled to reach all parts of the world.

The trusty old servant Station GBSW at Chelmsford has helped to chart the ether channels on a worldwide map, but it is not modern enough to solve the baffling problems caused by the sun, the moon, night and seasons that play tricks on radio waves. Chelmsford has been pumping the British programmes to the empire and other points far across the sea. It has been heard in practically every country on the globe, but it has proved beyond a doubt that its single wave of 25.53 meters is useless at all hours and at all destinations. The new station with its seventeen aerials will be designed to facilitate rapid change from one wave to another. Eleven of the aerials will be directional.

A Challenge To Static. The British Broadcasting Corporation is taking this step in a determined effort to give auditors throughout the empire something more than a fragmentary snatch of music and speech, fighting for supremacy with a cacophony of Morse and electrical uproar which has hitherto passed for empire broadcasting. It may be too optimistic to believe that far-flung parts of the globe will at once hear London calling as clearly and distinctly as we now hear American broadcast relays, but signs are not lacking that after a reasonable period for experimentation, the plan will be crowned with triumphant success.

Broadcasting in some of the dominions lacks the virility of the home radio organization, and it is believed that in places where the local service has practically failed the British Broadcasting Corporation may supply a life-giving force.

Higher License Fees. In other parts, where there is no broadcasting, attempts will be made to build up the nucleus of an enthusiastic audience of isolated settlers and exiles among foreign peoples. The crux of the scheme is that the empire programme shall be transmitted to local listeners by relay from the local station or a station specially built for the purpose. Though the British Broadcasting Corporation does not expect to raise any income from dominion listeners, there is a possibility that in the crown colonies and similar dependencies, where broadcasting will supply a great deficiency, the nominal annual license fee of £1 will be charged.

Though the empire programmes are not intended primarily for the American auditor, it is obvious that they will provide a rich field for the United States experimenter and present new opportunities for relays over a nation-wide network. The Canadian broadcasts, in particular, will be practically a direct addition to the fare with which our American cousins are already served by their home broadcasters.

A practical subject for speculation is whether the short-wave directional broadcasts will compare in reliability and intelligibility with the Atlantic-phone system. It is believed that they will, for in spite of the well-known vagaries of short waves, the beam phone systems to Australia and South Africa have already proved themselves. America Sets High Standard. It must be acknowledged, however, that recent American relays have set a high standard. Apart from an occasional "gargling" background, presumably due to static, there is little to complain of regarding audibility. The wave lengths for the new station are likely to be chosen in the following bands, which remain available: 50 to 48.8 meters; 31.6 to 31.2 meters; 25.6 to 25.2 meters; 19.85 to 19.55 meters; 16.9 to 16.85 meters; 14 to 13.9 meters.

The capital outlay on the new station has been estimated at $200,000, with a yearly expenditure of $250,000. It has lately been announced that, partly to make room for the vast system of aerials to be built at Daventry and partly to improve the home service area, the two existing stations there are to be removed to Drott-wich, further west. Incidentally, the long-wave Daventry station, which is famous in many parts of Europe and has an amazing poly-glot audience, is to have its power still further increased on its new site. These manoeuvres will, presumably, indirectly increase the capital outlay. As, however, the number of licensed listeners in Britain has recently risen to the new high record of 4,474,792, the broadcasting authorities are not worrying.

Little Publicity. The empire broadcasting scheme has lately not had publicity proportionate to its importance, but thinking men have been quick to realize that we are on the eve of sensational developments in imperial relations. To all parts of the spinning globe where British people are found and where the work of empire goes on, the long arm of radio will stretch with a thrilling personal message like that of a handshake.

Radio, moreover, can leave none out of its fellowship. Not only the sons of empire but also all the English-speaking peoples of the world will be united by closer bonds of sympathy when the new empire station comes into being at the end of this year—a very happy augury for the future peace and prosperity of troubled mankind.

COURTAULD'S WILD ADVENTURELeft A Prisoner In Arctic Winter*Rescued By Friends In Nick Of Time

LIVED DEEP IN SNOW

(By George Binney.)

[Mr. George Binney is well known as a leader of Arctic expeditions. While most people were fearing that Mr. Augustine Courtauld had succumbed to the rigours of his lonely vigil 8,000ft. above sea level on the interior of the Greenland ice-cap, he boldly stated his belief in Mr. Courtauld's safety.]

In the course of the next twenty years it is safe to presume that man will have finally explored those few regions of the earth which yet retain their secrets. Thus will it be possible to muster from the shelves of a completed library of exploration books of outstanding significance.

The account of the British Arctic Air-Route Expedition of 1930-31 is written in "Northern Lights," and will in the course of time, be read in every part of the world with amazement, and in every part of the Empire with pride.

It unfolds a story which in some respects has no equal, and in one respect is very poignant; for the leader of the expedition, Gino Watkins, was drowned only two months ago on his return to Greenland to complete, with the aid of three of his companions, the work which this book so modestly records.

Arctic exploration is usually associated with men of mature years and long experience. With a leader aged 23, with a nucleus of Cambridge undergraduates, and with a few young officers from the Services, fourteen men in all, of whom only three had previous Arctic experience, seven major journeys of exploration were achieved with impunity under severe conditions.

Over Greenland.
Without so much as a "By your leave, sir," Greenland was twice crossed; the highest ascent of an Arctic mountain was achieved; a long and hazardous boat-journey from the east to the south-west coast was successfully completed. The Eskimo were outwitted in their native craftmanship. The air-party contributed eighty-six hours of flying for survey and reconnaissance purposes in the face of continual adversity.

Such is the sum of remarkable achievement, which is told in detail in this official account by Mr. F. Spencer Chapman, a member of the expedition.

From the narrative as it stands we catch the atmosphere of the vast, bewildering and silent wastes of Greenland, which swallowed up the sledgers for weeks and months on end, and from which they burst with laughter and joyful chatter no less suddenly than they departed.

Most readers will find a thrill in Augustine Courtauld's account—brief and coldly matter-of-fact as it is—of his lonely vigil on the ice-cap of the interior, latterly imprisoned in a snowbound dungeon:

"For the first few weeks I was kept busy digging myself out through the tunnel to get to the instruments. This tunnel would get completely filled after half an hour's blizzard. Gradually the drift gained on the digging . . .

"On January 4 a very severe gale finally closed the entrance. A hole was therefore made in roof of one of the small snowhouses which were connected with the main tent by underground passages."

Courtauld, who had been left at Ice Cap Station by his companions on December 6, 1931, found himself compelled to wait for relief till the spring. Gales on March 19 and 22 effectively closed all exits.

Three Fears.
No longer able to get out, Courtauld feared three possibilities: (1)

That the air would become vitiated (2) that weight of snow would crush in the tent, (3) that since he could no longer keep a look out, the relief party might miss the station altogether.

None of these possibilities actually happened. As guide to the relief party he put trust in the Union Jack displayed on its pole.

Relief was expected by March, but was delayed, and those were the conditions in the middle of April:

"There was no more light, luxuries had run out, and the comfort of the house was much reduced. Tobacco was completely exhausted, so tea was used as a substitute. Food consisted of a little oatmeal, just warmed up for breakfast, and thereafter uncooked pemmican, biscuit and margarine. . . . I tried various substitutes for light; paper, string, ski-wax, etc. None of them was satisfactory, though a lamp made of string in a tin of ski-wax was the best, and would last a few minutes at least if carefully tended."

The only external incident of interest to the lonely man was "a curious and very terrifying phenomenon," still unexplained—"a sound beginning as a distant rushing noise, which rose quickly in a crescendo, to end in a crash, rather as if an avalanche had buried the house." It happened twice.

Enjoyed Good Books.

"All the time I was not sleeping, and while the light lasted, I used to read, or draw plans of boats, dinners, meteorological instruments or other things. Fortunately my predecessors had left a very good assortment of books. The ones I remember enjoying most were: 'Vanity Fair,' 'Guy Rannering,' 'Jane Eyre,' 'The Forsyte Saga,' 'Kidnapped,' 'The Master of Ballantrae,' and 'Whitaker's Almanack.' There were times when the Bible made very good reading."

Thus time passed, with "a curious growing feeling of security, that came to me," till one auspicious day, May 5, the primus stove gave its last gasp. A black outlook! But that day saw the end. The laconic entry reads:

"A few minutes later an extraordinary scraping and scratching sound was heard overhead, which turned out to be the relief party. On being extricated I found I was perfectly all right, except for a feeling of weakness due to lack of exercise. However, I was able to walk slowly, and in the following days quickly recovered my full strength."

Christmas gifts of lambs to relatives in Great Britain from people in Australia proved so acceptable last year that Australians are now preparing for another Christmas ship. Orders for the lambs are pouring into the office in Melbourne, where arrangements are being made for the consignment of the gifts.

The Lord Mayor of Melbourne, will as usual send one to the Lord Mayor of London. It costs 22s 6d to send a lamb from door to door.

"Nelson's" Height . . .

The sight of workmen decorating the Nelson monument with festoons of evergreen recently prompted many to wonder how many Londoners know the height of the figure on the top of the Nelson column in Trafalgar-square.

From the ground it gives the impression of a man about 5ft 3in tall, with a proportionate breadth. Actually the figure of Nelson is 17ft 4in high, and 5ft 11in across the shoulders, and the dangling sword that looks as tiny as 7ft 9in in length.

Here are other curious figures: the width of the cocked hat is 8ft 9in and the three blocks of stone that form the figure weigh 15 tons.

At the base the columns measure 38ft 6in at the top with the capital the measurement is 17ft 6in.

The figure of Nelson is 17ft 4in high, and 5ft 11in across the shoulders, and the dangling sword that looks as tiny as 7ft 9in in length.

The Empire's Lucky Day . . .

It almost looks as though thirteen is a lucky day for the British Empire. It was on July 13 that the "Empire Ship" sailed for Canada bearing the delegates on their auspicious mission.

Exactly one month later—on August 13—the fact that the entire Empire had arrived at unanimous conclusions on economic policy—at one time regarded as well-nigh impossible—was announced.

And it was on October 13 that the full measure of the achievements was published and acclaimed throughout the Empire.

Will the same date prove lucky for the Empire in another sphere? October 13 was the day on which Mr. De Valera and his fellow delegates—thirteen in all—left Dublin for the conference with British Ministers in London.

True, the most interesting event within the Empire, occurring on September 13, was Mr. Gandhi's announcement of his intention to starve himself to death. But Mr. Gandhi, happily, was able to abandon this intention thirteen days later.

The Grand Old Lady of Vienna . . .

Herr Von Hoersch, the new German Ambassador, who arrived in London recently, comes of a family that is partly Rhineland and partly Viennese.

A friend who knew her well said that the Grand Old Lady of Vienna was a very different person from the one who was known to the world.

Gustav Ritter von Schoeller. He was the Grand Old Lady of Vienna, and died just a year ago at the age of nearly 99.

She was extremely lively, and had the mental if not the physical agility of an exceptional person of half her age.

Herr von Hoersch, who inherits from her much of his good looks and personal charm, joined her family birthday parties whenever the exigencies of the Diplomatic Service allowed him to be present.

The Succulent Snail . . .

A taste for snails, formerly only obtainable in a few of the smaller foreign restaurants in Soho, is being acquired in this country. They are now being served in many high-class West-end establishments.

In the best Paris restaurants the serving of escargots is in the hands of a special functionary—the snail waiter who superintends the cleaning of the snails, and the serving of the attendant sauces.

The edible snail is abundant in England, and might be farmed in this country as easily as it is in France, where the snails are kept in chicken runs, and are fed mainly upon lettuce and mulberry leaves.

The Romans farmed them on a large scale, and by scientific methods. They kept various breeds, and gave them names, and employed slave labour to dig them from their allotted beds.

FAVOURITES WIN IN CHAMPIONS AT LAST MEETING

Whoopee Pays Big Dividend

Champion Jockey And Two Others Thrown

MR. CAPLAN WINS ON KILREA

MR. LEO FROST TOTALS 51 WINNERS FOR YEAR AT VALLEY.

THRILLS AND SPILLS FEATURED THE LAST RACE MEETING OF THE YEAR AT HAPPY VALLEY YESTERDAY. ALTHOUGH THREE RIDERS WERE THROWN FROM AUSTRALIAN PONIES DURING THE AFTERNOON, NO SERIOUS INJURIES WERE SUSTAINED, MR. LEO FROST AND MR. S. N. PAN, TWO OF THE UNFORTUNATES, RIDING IN LATER RACES. MR. A. W. DA ROZA, WAS THE OTHER VICTIM, AND HE WAS NOT SEEN IN THE SADDLE AGAIN DURING THE AFTERNOON.

The three Autumn Champions events provided no surprises, the favourite winning in all three races. Mr. Frost won both China ponies' Champions, but in the Queensland Autumn Champions, his mount, The Giraffe, jumped the rails and threw him, leaving the field to Polar Star, the favourite, and Lucy Gitters.

Two three-figure dividends were returned, the highest figure of the day being returned by Whoopee, who, with Mr. J. E. Noronha in the saddle, dead-heated for first place with Gallant Fox (Mr. Frost), in the last race of the day.

Mr. Frost, who sets a new Hong Kong record by riding 51 winners in a season, was again the most successful jockey of the day, returning three firsts and a second. Mr. G. U. da Roza had a creditable run of successes during the afternoon, gaining places in six out of the eight events in which he rode. His figures were one win, three second places and two third places. Mr. Butler had a winner, a second and a third and Mr. S. N. Pan a winner and a second. Other winners were ridden by Messrs. Y. T. Fung, A. L. Caplan and J. E. Noronha.

GAY CRUSADER WINS

King's Bounty, the favourite for the December Handicap, was the first of the favourites to be beaten.

Only three ponies started in the event, which was won by Gay Crusader (Mr. Fung), after a thrilling duel with Blue Star. The latter pony, although competing against better class ponies, made an excellent race. He was left many lengths behind in the opening stages of the race, when Gay Crusader took the lead. King's Bounty only challenged once, and after taking the lead near the Village Bend, was passed by both his rivals in the straight. Blue Star made a great effort to catch Gay Crusader near the winning post, and was only beaten by a head.

TWO SPILLS

The second race of the day, the Barrier Reef Handicap for Australian ponies, brought disaster to two jockeys.

Mr. A. W. da Roza parted company with his mount, Joaquim, when opposite the football stands. His fall was due to the saddle-girth giving way. Fortunately, he was not seriously hurt, though the shock prevented him riding in any other event. Mr. S. N. Pan, who was riding Evening Star, also fell, when only a few yards from the winning post. His fall was due to the saddle, slipping out of position. He, however, picked himself up and walked from the course unaided.

But After That (Mr. Frost) started favourite in the race, but failed to obtain a place. Mr. Caplan springing a surprise win on Kilrea, to pay $140.10 for a win. Mermald was excellently ridden by Mr. Butler into second place, while Canny second favourite, took third place.

Evening Star found the weight too great and was never a danger. Mr. Frost made a good effort to bring the favourite into a place, but could only manage to run into fourth position.

PLOVER WINS

The Dilatory Plate was productive of a minor surprise, when The Plover beat King's Counsel, the favourite, by about 10 lengths. Orlando who was ridden by Mr.

GALLANT FOX BACKED TO WIN IN CHINA MAIL

Five Winners Out of Eight.

Five winners out of eight races!

That was the impressive record of "Trot" in the China Mail yesterday. Among these winners was Gallant Fox, considered by many to have little chance of winning owing to the pony carrying 168 lb.

Watch the China Mail for local racing paragraphs—authoritative tips from the course after the morning gallops.

The Racing Supplement every Wednesday contains the latest course notes and will act as a guide to the form expected in the Annual Meeting.

Carroll, who deputised for Mr. Roza, made all the running for the first half mile and established a tremendous lead. The pace was too hot, however, and he faded out in the latter stages, to finish fourth. Cebu occupied second place when the field reached the Rock, but was passed by King's Counsel. The Plover took the lead at the Village Bend and cantered home with King's Counsel second. Mr. A. A. R. Botelho rode a good race and brought Wakefield into third money.

FAILURE OF SADKO

Sadko did not perform like a first class pony, and was last in the field of three ponies that started in the Hong Kong Autumn Champions.

Glencages started a firm favourite, and fully justified the support, winning easily. Bag and Baggage took the lead from the start, and the field ran in single file, about a length separating each, for nearly half a mile. Glencages being in the rear. At the six furlong post, Sadko came neck and neck with Bag and Baggage, leaving Glencages four lengths behind. The latter came up after passing the Rock, however, and took the lead on entering the straight. The other two ponies fought strongly for second place, but Bag and Baggage maintained his slight advantage.

THE GIRAFFE'S ANTICS

Those punters who daringly placed their money on The Giraffe, in the Queensland Autumn Champions, quickly had their hopes shattered, when, immediately upon starting, he shied sideways, dodged in front of Polar Star and jumped over the rails, throwing Mr. Frost in the process.

This little sideplay enabled Mr. Tuxford to get a lead of about 15 lengths over the favourite, Polar Star, who by a miracle had not become embroiled in the rodeo display.

On passing the stands for the first time, Polar Star was more than 10 lengths behind his only rival, and Mr. Butler seemed content to let it go at that. From the football stands onwards, however, the pace of the Kong Bros. crack began to tell, and the margin commenced to decrease. By the time the two ponies had reached the Village Bend, the Star took the lead, and finished comfortably to win by many lengths. Mr. Frost, who returned in the starter's car, was not hurt, with the exception of a minor strain to his ankle, but he rode in and won the next race.

HELTER SKELTER'S BID

The last of the Champions, the Sub-Griffins Autumn Champions, went exactly as the public expected, the ponies coming home in the order in which they had been backed. Racing Boy, the favourite, was kept at the back of the field by Mr. Frost, until entering the straight, when he came through with a fine burst to beat Bistre, the second favourite. Helter Skelter, who led the field from the start, was passed by both Racing Boy and Bistre in the last quarter, but Golden Arrow, the only other entry, could not emulate the feat of his companions.

COTTON PIRACY IN THE EAST

Lancashire Labels
Imitated

Copies were shown of Japanese labels for cotton goods, which are almost exact replicas of labels used by Manchester merchant firms for decades past, writes the Manchester correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

This form of trade piracy, which is regarded as worse than the Japanese dumping methods, has been going on in Japan for some time. It actually means that goods made in Japan, of an inferior quality, are offered in the markets as Lancashire-made goods.

These labels are called in the trade "tickets." They are in bright colours, and are as well-known in the bazaars of the East as they are in the warehouses of Manchester.
The imitations might deceive anyone who did not detect in tiny type the words, "Printed in Japan."

The designs copied were a girl's head, a golden eagle, and a steamship, and all three were infringements of any copyright that might exist in the design.

The attention of the Manchester

Chamber of Commerce has been called to the matter, and it is reported that the Japanese Government has refused to take any steps to prevent a recurrence of the cause of complaint.

"No wonder the Japanese are capturing our trade," said a commentator "for attached to one of the copied tickets are cheap points (cloths) copying out designs and colours so exactly that you can hardly tell them from pure."

"The thing is getting so serious that we think the British Government ought to intervene, for it is most damaging to our reputation and our trade."

A Disappointing American Reply.

THE American reply to the British Note on war debts is disappointing, and the insistence on payment of the December instalment will prejudice the prospects for an early recovery from the economic depression. Readiness is expressed to negotiate for revision, but this concession was inevitable, and while the Note is in friendly tone the American viewpoint differs vastly from British opinion. Most of the points stressed in the British Note are refuted, although not very convincingly, and there is little hint of sacrifice. In consequence, Great Britain will pay the instalment of almost $8100,000,000, payment to be made in gold, and France will probably also meet her obligation. Italy had already announced her intention to meet her debt payment but the amount involved is small. The powerful Beaverbrook newspaper group openly advocates default, while Premier Herriot is experiencing difficulty in securing support for his measure to authorise payment. The question will be debated in the French Chamber of Deputies to-morrow and strong opposition will be offered by the many factions who have urged default. It would not be politic for Britain to default but she will not pay again on these terms. Revision is imperative and serious consequences threaten if American opinion is not modified. France fears the collapse of the Lausanne agreement if the United States continues to insist on payment, and takes the view that America must share in the sacrifices which she and Great Britain found it advisable to make for the benefit of Europe. Britain is concerned with honouring her obligations, but the desperate plight of the taxpayer makes it impossible for unreasonable demands to be met. And if Washington continues to maintain the same attitude the demands will be unreasonable. The reply makes it clear that the examination of the whole situation does not imply cancellation, and hints that any concession offered will not be very considerable. It was not expected that the United States view would concur with British opinion on all points but the diversity of opinion is startling. The reply states: "The United States Government cannot accept the implications in the British Note that the loans made by the United States represent, in their interest, expenditure on destruction, that the payments heretofore made to the United States have been largely responsible for the existing world depression and the concentration of a large amount of gold in the United States and that the complete cancellation of War Debts is essential to world recovery." No reason for this statement is given, despite the fact that it conflicts with the views of several of the leading American economists who have declared that the large concentration of gold in one country, following the vast debt payments, has disrupted the world's monetary system. In stressing the relation of war debts to disarmament President Hoover once against indicates that the United States will bargain on the issue and for the moment this seems the most that can be expected as a concession. It is possible that President-elect Roosevelt, who has so far avoided the problem, will be prepared to compromise further, and during the period before the negotiations take place the American public may gain a fuller appreciation of the urgency of the matter. By now it should be fully realized that there is not the remotest prospect of full payment of the debts ever being made, and efforts should now be concentrated on securing a settlement which would offer the greatest benefit both to America and her debtors. In this way one of the main obstacles hindering a world economic recovery would be removed. It is most unfortunate that the British request for suspension of the December instalment has been refused but a settlement must be achieved in the immediate future. In the reply one assertion seems almost incomprehensible. Regarding the statement that the initiative in devising the Lausanne settlement of reparations was taken with the cognisance and approval of the United States Government, it says the facts were more accurately set out by the Chancellor of Exchequer's statement in July. The proceeding there were throughout on the basis that the debt was a European debt, not a British debt, and that the United States was not a party to the settlement. The United States Government's position is that the debt is a European debt, not a British debt, and that the United States was not a party to the settlement. The United States Government's position is that the debt is a European debt, not a British debt, and that the United States was not a party to the settlement.

LOCAL BANKER RETIRES.

Mr. Ko Leong Hoe.

MANAGING DIRECTOR OF HO HONG BANK.

The many friends and associates of Mr. Ko Leong-hoe will learn with great disappointment that, for health reasons, he has been obliged to resign his post of Managing Director of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Branches of the Ho Hong Bank, Ltd. It is with much regret that the severance is recorded of his long connection with this institution, which he had, in no small measure, helped to build up.

Before coming to Hong Kong, he served the institution in Malaya, and was mainly responsible for the establishment of the branches in Hong Kong and Shanghai, the activities of which he had so ably directed since their opening.

He was much liked, and was held in great esteem by the members of the staff, to whom he had always given his most sympathetic consideration, and for whose welfare he had always shown deepest concern. To what extent the members of the staff have appreciated his kindnesses to them individually, and what he had done for them collectively, can be gauged from the following Address the Shanghai staff presented to him on November 23, 1932. We understand that a similar Address will be presented to him by the Hong Kong staff on his return to this port.

To Mr. Ko Leong Hoe, Esq. Greetings. We, the undersigned, the Management and Staff of The Ho Hong Bank, Limited, Shanghai, take great pleasure in presenting to you, on your resignation, as Managing Director of Hong Kong and Shanghai Branches, this Address, in token of our respect for and high esteem of you.

By your resignation, the Bank has lost a most capable and valuable Officer, for it has been through your untiring efforts that these two Branches, of which you have the distinction of being the Managing Director right from their inception, have made remarkable progress and the prestige which the Bank has enjoyed, bears eloquent testimony to your executive ability and wise supervision and direction.

During your tenure of office, you have shown the utmost consideration and courtesy to us and have evinced keen interest in our welfare. Always approachable and kind, you have endeared yourself to all who have had the privilege and pleasure of being your subordinates.

It is therefore with profound regret that we received the news of your resignation for we have not only lost a good superior but also a kind friend. We fervently hope, however, that the leisure which you have so deservedly earned, will enable you to regain your health and vigour and that health and happiness will be in store for you for many more years to come. Shanghai, 23rd Nov., 1932.

FORMER SOLDIERS IN TRAINING.

19th Route Army Men Learn Peace Trade.

Mr. Wen Tsung-yao, head of the Kwang Shu Cantonese Association and also head of the Committee of the Cantonese Technical Institute, arrived in the Colony from Shanghai on Friday and visited Mr. Chan Lim-pak, Chairman of the Tung Wah Hospital Board, and was later the guest of Mr. Chan, at a dinner party.

Seen by the Sunday Herald, Mr. Wen explained that the Technical Institute had been opened to give those who had been wounded during the Sino-Japanese conflict a chance to learn a trade. The Institute had been established in Shanghai with $50,000 appropriated from the Tung Wah Hospital Board. It is large enough to train more than 5,000 men at one time.

Trained men have been employed to demonstrate to the students and many of the students have been employed in the Tung Wah Hospital and in the Tung Wah Hospital Board.

The Wisest Men Can Find More Wisdom

Happiness Balanced By Sadness

GIVE AND BE GAY!

(By E. L. ALLEN.)

THE Swedish author, Selma Lagerlof, rounds off one of her novels with a story which purports to be a Sicilian legend but which I imagine sprang rather from the mind of the writer herself. When the creation of the world and man was complete, so the story goes, the Lord sent St. Peter down from heaven, with instructions to go through the earth and report on what he found there. After a time he came back. "Lord," he said, "I went through the earth, and I found everybody weeping." Thereupon the Lord shook His head, and said, "Then my work is not yet finished."

A second time the apostle went out on his errand, and this time he came back saying, "Lord, I went through the earth, and I found everybody laughing." But the Lord was not satisfied, and again he said, "Then my work is not yet finished."

After a while he summoned St. Peter and sent him out again. This time, when the saint returned, he said, "Lord, I went through the earth, and I found some weeping and some laughing." When the Lord heard that, He smiled and said, "Then my work is finished and I can rest."

What is the meaning of that story? I imagine it is fairly obvious. God might have chosen to make a world in which everybody would be infallibly happy, the whole thing going by clockwork, as it were. Instead, He decided to make one in which it would not be easy for anyone to get happiness except by giving it to someone else at the same time. He might have made a world in which everybody would have been necessarily miserable, destined from the cradle to a life of sorrow. Instead, He chose to make one in which no one need wholly despair, so long as he can find another whose heart is open to him. God saw that the best state of things would not be one in which pain was allowed to dominate, nor would it be one from which it had been ruled out altogether. He longed to see a humanity in which no man should sit tight in his own corner, either gloating over his private store of good fortune or lamenting his own inheritance of misery, but in which all should be rich, because each is ready to share with his neighbour. Hard To Reconcile.

That the inequalities of life, as they are to be seen around us, are willed by God and exist by His wise ordering of things, is a proposition which has often been maintained, but which it is not possible to accept. A very large proportion of such inequalities seem unquestionably to be the outcome rather of human ignorance and folly. That there should be such glaring differences as there are among men in respect of wealth and opportunity is not the sort of thing that one can reconcile with the will of God.

At the same time, I imagine that if all these man-made inequalities at which we fret so much were as one sweep removed from human life, there would still exist a great many inequalities which would simply have to be accepted. God's ideal for the world is not that it should be all one dead level, like the Fen country in East Anglia, but rather that it should contain an infinite variety. He does not turn out men and women as a modern factory might turn out, say, cigarette tins, hundreds of thousands of them, identical in shape, size, and weight. Men are not born equal in endowment or ability, each man has his own particular outlook upon life, and each has his specific task to do. We need one another, and we must teach one another. Only it must be remembered that a man must be willing to be teacher to-day and scholar to-morrow, for there is none from whom he cannot learn something. The man whose life has seldom been invaded by trouble has happiness which he can share with his neighbour; the man who has suffered much may have learned through his suffering a deeper insight into life than the other has, and he can initiate him into it.

Submit and Rebel! Life is not a thing which calls either for full submission or for frank rebellion. Rather does it call for patience and effort—patience in face of those things which are immovable, and effort in face of those which it is clearly our duty to seek to remove. The reason why we should try to be rid of those inequalities by which man wrongs his fellow man, is just that only when we have done that will the divine intention become clear, and we shall be left with those inequalities by which men are meant to serve one another in love.

RADICAL 'HANDBILLS'

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Shanghai, Yesterday.
Foreign Settlement police found anti-Japanese slogans "Chiang Kai-shek lives at ease; Wang Ching-wai takes shelter abroad; Chang Hauch-ling loves beauty, but not his country," printed on handbills and thrown from the Sun Sun store roof garden on to Nanking Road to-day.
The handbills predicted dire calamities to those disobeying the instructions of the composers.

by the plague, the wives of traitorous merchants will become Japanese playthings, while the sons will be assaulted by men of Japan. All Chinese traders dealing in Japanese goods will have robbers for sons and prostitutes for daughters."

Su and Ma Safe Says New Report

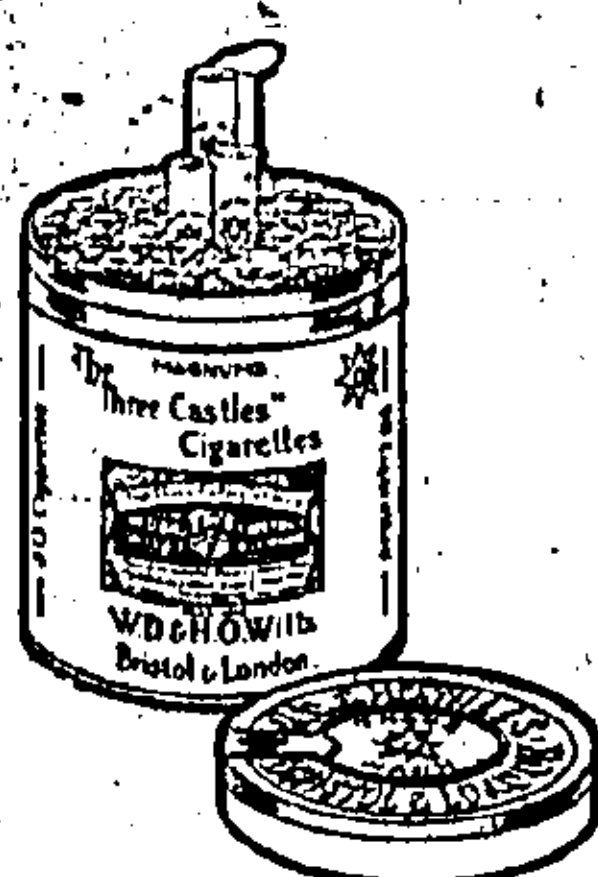

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The Japanese report that General Su Ping-wen had been handed over to the Japanese military authorities is authoritatively denied from Moscow, where it is stated that he and his staff have been given permission to go to Europe.

Meanwhile General Ma Chanshan is reported to have announced that he has never been to Russia, saying that he was amalgamated General Su Ping-wen's troops with his own army in order to continue the opposition to the Japanese. — Reuter.

Elegance

comes to a woman who is sure of herself, content with her beauty, healthy in body and mind. If she does not feel beautiful, she cannot appear elegant.

The glorious feeling of well-being, the glow of a healthy, pore-pure skin, the rich sensation of radiance that come from the use of Mysore Sandal Soaps is due to the oil of Sandalwood that have gone to their making, the same oil and ash that have made India's women beautiful, for 1,000 years.

BRIDGE NOTES

STRATEGY OF BRIDGE RUSE TO CONFUSE THE DEALER More About Forcing.

THEY say God is always for the playing for a drop in the trump suit, but led a heart to enter the Dummy and lead a spade through North. When North played the six East was confirmed in his judgment. Big battalions have a habit of winning at Contract, also, but it is the distribution of the trumps, which he read as fourth best, that North held but two more spades, great was his surprise when South showed up with the Knave of spades.

South then cashed his established heart and led a diamond. West was thus compelled to take the finesse in that suit which he had sought to avoid and when it lost, his contract was defeated. After the Opening lead of the spade the entire problem of defence rested upon the lead to the second trick. By refusing to woodenly use a rule designed to meet a different situation, South had saved the day.

The Bidding.
(Figure after the bid in table refers to numbered explanatory paragraph).
South West North East
1—C 1—H Pass 2—S (1)
Pass 4—S Pass Pass
1—Even although the bidding was opened by an opponent, East holds a strong two-suiter and wishes to give his partner a picture of something more than a possible weak effort to reach a better contract; hence, his jump bid.

In the play, South led two rounds of clubs, exhausting East and West. He could see one more probable trick in his own hand. This would hold East to his contract of four spades, but that was not enough. Where was the needed setting trick (grapha). To be found? The player holding South the South hand realised that ordinary methods would not produce the trick. It could not be won by force, if East had the strength to justify bid.

Force failing there remained a ruse to confuse the Declarer as to the situation in the trump suit. If North's holding was such as to give colour to the attempt. In any event, nothing could be lost, but a possible extra trick, so South led the five of trumps. The nine was played from Dummy, North played the Knave of trumps, North played the Ace. Winning this trick, East began a re-study of the hand. He had a Singleton heart. It seemed quite reasonable in accord with the law of symmetry, that another hand around the table might also have a Singleton.

A Singleton? Apparently, South held a Singleton spade; otherwise, East reasoned, he would not lead a low card from such holding as Queen five. In any event, if he held two spades it seemed clear to East that they must both be small ones. East, convinced by his own reasoning, decided against one more. If this should be the Queen, as appeared probable from his play, then the return of the Knave must establish the nine in the Dummy. South, therefore, must not return his highest remaining spade, but lead instead the five and North's King won. North now discontinued the lead of the spade suit and shifted to a heart, as nothing could be gained by continuing the suit. West then won four clubs and three heart tricks. He needed but 2 tricks to complete his contract. The diamond Ace accounted for one of them, but West felt it would be better to avoid taking the finesse, if possible, and therefore chose as a means of exit from his hand a lead of the spade 9 from Dummy. Sure from the lead of the deuce, which he read as fourth best, that North held but two more spades, great was his surprise when South showed up with the Knave of spades.

South then cashed his established heart and led a diamond. West was thus compelled to take the finesse in that suit which he had sought to avoid and when it lost, his contract was defeated. After the Opening lead of the spade the entire problem of defence rested upon the lead to the second trick. By refusing to woodenly use a rule designed to meet a different situation, South had saved the day.

AUBURN RACERS UNDER STRAIN.

Establish Records For Stock Cars.

An idea of the tremendous demands made on an automotive power plant driving a car at 100 miles an hour can be obtained from statistics compiled by engineers of the Auburn Automobile Company, on the operation of the twelve-cylinder Auburn which establish 37 stock car speed records recently at Muroc Dry Lake, Calif.

In order to attain such a speed the moving parts in an engine whirl at a terrific rate. As an example, the connecting rod which transmits the power of the cylinder explosion to the crankshaft, moves up and down so fast it would appear as a blur to the human eye if it were exposed. On each power thrust this rod is shot approximately four inches downward with the force of a cannon-ball, the movements topped, and the rod shot back up in the opposite direction at the same speed.

At 100 miles an hour, the 12-cylinder Lycoming engine of the Auburn fires at a rate of 23,868 explosions per minute—an average of 1,989 explosions per minute in each cylinder. This involves 47,736 separate operations of the 24 intake and exhaust valves.

The twelve pistons, with a stroke of 4.25 inches, travel at a speed of 32 miles an hour, each covering approximately 2,816.6 feet a minute. These pistons turn the crankshaft at a rate of 3,987 revolutions per minute, and the drive shaft revolves at the same speed.

Amazing Speed. These 3,987 revolutions of the drive shaft, transmitted to the wheels at a ratio of 3.4 to 1, drive the car ahead at a rate of 1,170 wheel revolutions per minute which means that the car, at 100 miles an hour, moves at a rate of 146.7 feet per second, or 8,802 feet a minute.

When such amazing requirements are placed on a stock motor car and engine, the necessity for inherent stamina is apparent. Unless constructed of only the finest materials under the most advanced engineering methods no stock car could be expected to withstand such strain.

Although the average motorist to-day will seldom drive a car at a 100-mile an hour rate Auburn engineers believe passenger cars should be built to withstand such requirements, thus insuring their greater dependability, safety, and more economical operation at normal driving speeds.

REDUCING COST OF FUEL.

Using Heavy Oil With Petrol.

At the present time, when the price of petrol has recently been, and may again be, raised, more than usual interest attaches to a carburettor which operates efficiently on a mixture of heavy oil and petrol. This instrument is known as the Atomiser, and it is a production of Monsieur H. Claudel, whose name in connection with the subject of carburation is well known.

That this carburettor can deal successfully and efficiently with a fuel consisting of 90 per cent. of heavy oil and 10 per cent. of petrol was demonstrated on a six-cylinder Hotchkiss. In the behaviour of the car there was nothing which would cause one to suspect that the fuel and carburettor were other than normal, for starting, tickover, slow running and acceleration were all that one normally expects from his car.

There is no trace of the pungent oil fumes which would betray incomplete combustion in the exhaust gas.

Careful tests have shown that the power output of an engine fitted with the Atomiser, and running on a mixture of 90 per cent. of heavy oil and 10 per cent. of petrol, is increased by 10 per cent. over that of an engine running on pure petrol.

Accordingly, the saving in fuel cost is estimated to be between 10 and 20 per cent. of the total cost of running a car.

New Car Salvage Equipment Great Hydraulic Baling Press

A CAR PER MINUTE

A GREAT hydraulic baling press into compact bales hardly larger than bales of hay, at the rate of approximately one per minute.

Labeling Molten Metal. A conveyor deposits the bales in charging boxes and the boxes are emptied into the new furnace. Following the melting process the scrap steel is transferred by crane-swinging ladles to any of nine 100-ton open hearth furnaces adjacent to it. There it subsequently is joined by molten pig iron from the Rouge plant blast furnaces.

Formerly the molten pig when brought from the blast furnaces to the Open Hearth building was temporarily stored in a single mixer situated at the end of the furnace line. This mixer was recently removed and sent to England for installation at the Ford Motor Company of England's new manufacturing plant at Dagenham, near London. It was replaced by two huge storage mixers, each of 600 tons capacity.

Two sets of scales so finely adjusted as to weigh from a few pounds to 100 tons support ladles into which the molten metal, as needed, is poured in measured amounts from the mixers. These ladles then conduct the pig iron to the open hearth furnaces to be refined with the molten scrap taken from the 400-ton furnace and other miscellaneous scrap steel of the desired analysis.

The use of so-called scrap in refining steel is essential to industry. Pig iron forms but a part of the metal bath. If the iron ore reserves are not to be finally exhausted, industry must gradually look more and more to scrap steel. It was recently stated that two-fifths of all the iron and steel now manufactured in the United States comes from scrap.

Looking ahead, a day is foreseen when all steel will come from scrap mixed with a small amount of pig iron obtained from an ever diminishing store of ore.

Under the new arrangement instead of crushing and shearing the wreck it only is necessary to thrust the stripped cars into the powerful hydraulic press which shapes them

WOMEN A MENACE TO HIGHWAYS.

"Too Confident" And Take Risks.
TOUR OF OBSERVATION.

Women motorists are rapidly becoming a menace to the safety of the roads.

Their most glaring fault is one bred of over-confidence. It is that most heinous of all offences, "cutting-in."

During a tour of observation in different parts of the country I have seen four serious accidents due to this offence, writes the London Herald Motor Correspondent.

All the offending drivers were women. In each case the driver had undoubtedly misjudged her distance. She thought there was room to get through—there was not.

That is where the average woman driver fails—she cannot judge distances quickly and correctly. The average man is brought up to judge distances.

Sex has very little to do with driving ability, as I have said before, but the woman novice is more dangerous than the man novice.

"When a woman driver is good she is usually very good. When she is bad she is a menace," a well-known driver put it to me. The speaker was a woman.

There are more women drivers than ever on the roads. During a week-end they form 35 per cent. of the total number, but on a week-day half the number of cars on the road are driven by women.

Most of these have passed the early stages of "learning to drive." They become over-confident and take risks.

Understand that the increased number of women drivers has not been accompanied by a corresponding increase in the number of police

FORD'S OWN MOTOR SHOW.

Cars For All At White City.

(By A London Correspondent.) I went to Olympia's rival motor show yesterday—the Ford Motor Show at the White City.

A big crowd was there, deeply interested in the Ford "Hymn of Eight"—the new 8 h.p. car and the new 30 h.p. V-8 which are the high lights of the Ford range.

The Baby has been improved since I published the first news of this newcomer last May.

Its petrol tank is now at the rear, as on all Ford models, the saloon body is extraordinarily roomy for an 8-h.p. car, and the three-speed gearbox has a silent second—a standard feature on all Ford passenger cars.

The new V-8 is one of the fastest cars on the market and the lowest-priced, full four-seater, 80 m.p.h. car obtainable. Its acceleration, as I have proved for myself, is phenomenal.

The 15 and 24 h.p. four-cylinder models are vastly improved in appearance by the new-type radiators, and coach-builders have provided a variety of body styles, including some good-looking roomy and comfortable sports bodies which make the Ford range absolutely complete.

Model For Everyone.

"If you want a Ford, there is a model to suit your needs," an official told me.

There is a very great deal to see at the White City.

The 100-odd stands exhibit considerably more than 200 passenger and commercial vehicles, ranging from the baby to the big 12-cylinder Lincoln, and many commercial vehicles.

One thing struck me particularly. Almost everybody was either a motorist or a would-be motorist.

The crowd had come to see, and in many cases to buy, and the salesmen were kept busy for the whole of the day.

One of the exhibitors supported me in this view.

"This is the first time I have shown at any exhibition where so much actual business has been done," he told me.

"These five days have been immensely successful from the point of view of orders booked, and that, after all, is the final test of a motor show."

"LETTY LYNTON"

"Last night, at the Capitol Theatre, I saw a great star portray the title-role in 'Letty Lynton.' Joan Crawford has ever given an excellent account of herself . . . it needed a Letty Lynton to demonstrate conclusively that Joan Crawford is far and away the most promising artiste on the screen horizon. M.-G.-M. seem thoroughly to have demonstrated the fact that they know how to develop stars as well as turn out box-office pictures. It is getting monotonous to say 'M.-G.-M. has done it again,' but we must insist that in 'Letty Lynton' they have another of those hits which are direct answers to the prayers of exhibitors who yearn to see long queues headed for the box-office (as who doesn't?)."

"A NIGHT LIKE THIS"

THE UPROARIOUS ALDWYCH COMEDY

BY BEN TRAVERS.

PRESS REVIEWS

"DAILY MIRROR" says: A brilliant British comedy. A typical Ben Travers' mirthquake. The film is one long laugh. I can thoroughly recommend "A Night Like This" as a really first-class entertainment to which the family can safely be taken. The photography is in the Hollywood class, and the musical background provided by Roy Fox's excellent band also helps to make the film an outstanding achievement from a British studio.

"EVENING NEWS" says: The new talkie is right up to the standard of "Rookery Nook," "Plunder," and "Tons of Money." Incidentally, as a sign of the times, there is a continued musical accompaniment to the picture.

JANET'S NEW ROLE NATURAL

No artificialities of manners, garb or speech were affected by Janet Gaynor, for her role in "The First Year," in which both she and Charles Farrell appear as a normal young American couple deeply engrossed in each other.

In "Merely Mary Ann" Janet was an English scullery maid; "Daddy Long Legs" presented her as a homeless orphan, fated to wash, scrub floors and nurse the babies; for "Delicious" she wore the red tam and kilts of Scotland and adopted the delightful brogue of the highlands to emphasize her characterization.

But in "The First Year" she has a father and mother of ample means, wears charming frocks, and entertains various young men as suitors. In fact, the chief charm of this latest Gaynor-Farrell romance is said to be the delightful naturalness of both players who rely solely upon their own personalities to emphasize the dramatic highlights of the story.

"The First Year," showing to-day at the Theatre, was adapted from Frank Craven's play by Lynn Starrett and was directed by William K. Howard.

HER SECOND BRIDAL GOWN

For the first time since she essayed the memorable role of Diane in "7th Heaven," Janet Gaynor wears a wedding dress in a motion picture production. It is a dress in which every girl who sees it will visualize herself.

This girlish wedding gown is fashioned of madonna ferine chiffon and Venice lace over a white satin slip. The bodice, sleeves and alternate portions of the full skirt are of the lace. The chiffon is tucked horizontally in rather wide tucks, alternating with the lace, in the skirt. The neck is outlined with orange blossoms, attractively arranged.

This is one of several smart gowns worn by Miss Gaynor in the picture.

Charles Farrell is co-starred with Miss Gaynor in "The First Year." Others in the cast are Minna Gombel Dudley Digges, Robert McWade, George Meeker, Maude Eburne and Elda Vokel.

LOYALISTS OF CANTON DRIVE FOR WAR FUND

Taxes Suggestion On Amusements.
WAGE-EARNERS TO AID.

Canton, Yesterday.
The valiant struggles of the northeast Volunteers against overwhelming odds, have intensified the campaign here to raise funds for their support.

Several methods have been devised to secure money to assist the Chinese loyalist forces in Manchuria. One is by voluntary contribution by the public, but a more practical and substantial scheme is by payment of a certain percentage out of monthly income from salary earners.

Landlords are requested to donate a certain amount out of their rent and other forms of raising money are by taxing theatrical performances and athletic contests.

It is believed here that by these means a large sum of money will be obtainable for the relief of the defending forces in Manchuria. People here in all professions and occupations are ready to sacrifice a portion of their income for a worthy cause. Even students are willing to part with some of their monthly allowance.—Central Press.
